Thinking of Relocating?

Visit ccoklahoma.com to watch community videos, find out about local schools, discover up and coming neighborhoods, and browse all the latest listings on the market.

Contact one of our Relocation Specialists Today! 918.392.9760

Oklahoma’s MOST VISITED real estate website!

WHAT’S INSIDE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Page</th>
<th>Topic</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Welcome to Tulsa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Why Tulsa?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Cost of Living</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>Comfortably Cosmopolitan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>It’s Where Energy Happens</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Find Yourself</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Performing Arts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Visual Arts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Preserving History</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>The Tulsa Sound Downtown</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Weekend Fun</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Fairs &amp; Festivals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Entertain the Family</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Sports</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>The Great Outdoors</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Daytrips</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Entertainment and Gaming</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>28</td>
<td>Shopping &amp; Dining</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30</td>
<td>Housing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>32</td>
<td>Education</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>34</td>
<td>Health Care</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>36</td>
<td>Top Industries</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>38</td>
<td>Culture / Diversity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>40</td>
<td>Relocation Resources</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ccoklahoma.com
Welcome to Tulsa, where East Coast sophistication, southern charm and western quirkiness thrive in a city built on the fortunes of oil barons and are seeded with the cultural affluence they brought to the heart of the Wild West.

It’s a city where musicians and artists coexist with cowboys and business executives, where coats and ties go with jeans, where locals brag they have been to the “Center of the Universe” and where lakegoers, mountain bikers and backpackers finish their weekends with an opera and a meal at a five-star restaurant.

It’s a city whose low cost of living and short commutes times — the second-shortest among major American cities — go hand-in-hand with its walking districts, museums, music venues, parks and schools, fostering a quality of life that has garnered accolades from a host of national publications.

Tulsans have an undeniable respect for the rich history upon which this city was built, and like those who built the former “Oil Capital of the World,” they are transforming the city’s landscape again today.

Nestled between the lush Ozark hills and miles of wild prairie, this former oil boom town anchors a bustling metropolis of about 1 million residents who have embraced a new boom: One of culture, downtown revitalization, thriving entertainment districts and a renewed optimism for the future of what has been called America’s most beautiful city.

An architectural masterpiece, the BOK Center, and a new baseball park spurred the rebirth of Tulsa’s downtown five years ago, and today, downtown’s landscape is changing by the minute as caches of oil boom-era art deco buildings are refurbished, and as new restaurants and nightlife venues reinvigorate the city’s core.

We invite you to be part of the story. We’re Tulsans, and we’re happy you’re here.

Tulsa has one of the largest concentrations of art deco architecture in the United States, behind only New York and Miami.

The Golden Driller, located at Expo Square, is one of the largest free-standing statues in the world.

The Cyrus Avery Centennial plaza, named after the Tulsa businessman and commissioner known as the “Father of Route 66,” celebrates the miles of historic Route 66 that run through Tulsa and the state of Oklahoma.

Tulsa was originally named Tulasi, meaning “old town” in Creek by the Lochapoka Creek Indians.

The historic Cain’s Ballroom in the Brady Arts District is known as the “Carnegie Hall of Western swing” and is the home of Bob Wills and his Texas playboys.
Why TULSA?

We have a quirky, somewhat unexplained landmark in Tulsa known as the Center of the Universe. The distinct, unassuming marker is located in the heart of Tulsa’s downtown and if you stand in just the right spot and speak, you’ll hear an eerie echo no one else can hear. There’s no real consensus on what causes the echo, but it is an accepted and cherished moniker of downtown Tulsa that sits comfortably at home in the city’s business district.

Much like the Center of the Universe, Tulsa sits comfortably in the state of Oklahoma, but maintains a very unique identity – a historic city with a wholly modern vibe, boasting a culturally diverse population and lifestyle.

Every Tulsa has a different answer for why this Oklahoma oddity is the city for them. Tulsa is big enough to offer high-end restaurants and stores, an array of nightlife and cherished moniker of downtown Tulsa.

Juan Miret
Occupation: Communications Specialist

“Tulsa represents the new American face—a face that reflects both old traditions and new memories.”—Juan Miret

Juan Miret likes to call Tulsa “chévere,” which roughly translates from Spanish as “cool.” The city, he says, has a diverse array of cultures that stems from its foundation—a former Creek Indian gathering place—and continues today as immigrants from all over the world and their descendants celebrate their heritage while sharing a common loyalty to their new home city. Multiculturalism is in Tulsa’s blood. Miret says.

From business to lifestyle, Tulsa continues to outrank other cities.

Life is Good

» NO. 1 affordable city in the U.S. (Relocate America 2010)
» NO. 1 most budget-friendly metro (Apartment Guide 2014)
» NO. 1 city nationwide most bang for your buck with apartment rent ( Apartment Guide 2013)
» NO. 8 best city for military personnel and veterans to live and work (Military Friendly Cities 2013)
» NO. 8 among U.S. cities for best family spring break destinations (Livability.com 2012)
» TOP 10 best music scene (Livability.com 2012)
» NO. 21 most literate city (Central Connecticut State University 2013)

Housing is Stable

» NO. 2 housing market (Zillow.com 2015)
» TOP 3 city for starter homes (Zillow.com 2011)
» TOP 5 real estate market for value gain (Zillow.com 2011)
» NO. 5 place to buy a home (CNBC 2010)

Business is Booming

» NO. 1 city Top 10 Most Budget-Friendly Metros ( Apartment Guide 2014)
» NO. 1 best state for Unemployment Insurance Taxes (Site Selection Group 2015)
» NO. 1 best city for young entrepreneurs in the U.S. (Forbes 2013)

» NO. 1 city nationwide for young entrepreneurs (Manhatten 2015)
» NO. 2 city to start a business (WalletHub 2015)
» NO. 2 in the country for the location of secure data centers (The Boys Co. 2013)

» NO. 3 in national home value growth (Zillow.com 2012)
» NO. 4 best city nationally to start a business (NerdWallet 2013)

» NO. 4 among U.S. cities for consumer banking (Manhattan 2015)
» NO. 4 nationally among Tier II cities for new and expanded facilities (Site Selection Group 2015)

» NO. 9 financially-fit city in the nation (CreditScore 2012)
» NO. 10 among cities to start a career (Washington Business Journal 2013)
» TOP 10 in FDI strategy for mid-sized cities (Site Magaize 2013)

» NO. 18 best city for freelancers (NerdWallet 2014)
ENJOY LIFE without breaking the bank

The numbers don’t lie: Money goes further in Tulsa. And it’s not for a lack of value.

This is a city where “quality of life” is more than a buzzword. It’s a mantra that city and community leaders have championed for years and every Tulsan recognizes as a tangible benefit to life here.

For some, quality of life means a morning jog on a stretch of the Tulsa area’s 180-mile bicycle and pedestrian trail system, which includes 40 miles lining the picturesque Arkansas River shoreline.

For others, it means hanging out in Brookside, a hip entertainment district lined with bars and boutiques. It might mean catching a concert at downtown’s BOK Center or the world-famous Cain’s Ballroom, shopping at Utica Square, browsing an art gallery in the booming Brady Arts District or watching your children play at one of our 125 parks.

For others still, quality of life means enjoying a slower-paced lifestyle where stress is washed away by short commute times and the laid-back, Midwestern friendliness of Tulsa’s residents.

Once honored as one of America’s most livable cities, Tulsa stands with the best of them. The difference: you don’t have to break the bank to live here.

BY THE NUMBERS*

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Tulsa</th>
<th>USA</th>
<th>Difference</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cost of Living</td>
<td>12 percent *below national average</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Per Capita Income</td>
<td>11.6 percent *above national average </td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average Apartment Rent, Tulsa</td>
<td>$600</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average Apartment Rent, USA</td>
<td>$877</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Difference</td>
<td>31.6 percent</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average House, Tulsa</td>
<td>$192,223</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average House, USA</td>
<td>$289,237</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Difference</td>
<td>33.5 percent</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Energy Cost, Tulsa</td>
<td>$126.88</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Energy Cost, USA</td>
<td>$162.48</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Difference</td>
<td>21.9 percent</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gas, Tulsa</td>
<td>$2.20</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gas, USA</td>
<td>$2.40</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Difference</td>
<td>8.3 percent</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Potatoes</td>
<td>15.9 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Groceries (avg.)</td>
<td>15.1 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Detergent</td>
<td>15.1 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men’s Dress Shirts</td>
<td>13 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eggs</td>
<td>11.4 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pizza</td>
<td>8.3 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ground Beef</td>
<td>7.5 percent less</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Council for Community and Economic Research Cost of Living Index, third-quarter 2013
U.S. Census

Why TULSA?

Tulsa stories

ARIANA JAKUB
Occupation: Artist

“When I came here, I felt that people were just a lot more genuine and interested in who you are as opposed to what you did.”

– ARIANA

Ariana, an artist, moved reluctantly from New York City to Tulsa after marrying a Tulsan several years ago. She says she found a bustling and growing arts scene and a small-town attitude uncharacteristic of a city its size. As a bonus, she rents a house at half of what she paid for a New York apartment each month.
Sophisticated.
It’s a word used to describe the cocktail lounges on Tulsa’s iconic skyscraper-lined Boston Avenue, the boutiques on Cherry Street and the world-famous Philbrook Museum of Art, which houses its pieces in a former oil baron’s sprawling estate.

It’s often applied to Tulsans themselves, many of whom have a flair for the arts and were educated at our prestigious private universities, such as the University of Tulsa.

Tulsans enjoy the sophisticated side of life, and they have plenty of ways to express it. The Brady Arts District, anchored by the historic Brady Theater, has become known for its First Friday Art Crawl, which draws thousands of visitors to the district’s galleries, bars and performance venues for a special lineup of displays and performances on the first Friday of every month. One of the region’s most celebrated and sophisticated shopping centers, Utica Square, is just a few miles away, offering some of the city’s most luxurious dining and shopping and some of its best mid-century architecture.

The Tulsa Opera is the 18th-oldest opera company in North America — and just one of the gems that make Tulsa’s cultural scene shine. Ballet, symphonic performances and other performing arts share the spotlight with a myriad of cultural events, activities, architecture, music and art — including 18 of Frederic Remington’s 22 bronzes.

Tulsa’s sophistication was seeded by oil tycoons who brought it from some of the country’s most sophisticated cities, but it has been tempered by the congeniality of Oklahoma. That’s why Tulsans like to say their city is comfortably cosmopolitan.

Comfort and class: What more could you want?
Once known as the Oil Capital of the World, today Tulsa is home to a different kind of energy.

An undeniable surge of excitement has captivated this city, perpetrated by the rebirth of its historic urban core, an influx of young professionals, interest in arts and entertainment opportunities.

Historic entertainment districts like downtown’s Brady, Blue Dome and Greenwood districts are seeing development at record paces, with new eateries, bars, galleries, performing arts venues and loft apartments opening regularly.

Downtown’s revitalization began in 2008 with the opening of its 18,500-seat, 550,000-square-foot arena, the BOK Center. Designed by world-renowned architect Cesar Pelli, this venue attracts premier entertainers who perform to sold-out crowds and is the No. 20 venue in the world for ticket sales. It also hosts Tulsa’s WNBA basketball team, the Tulsa Shock. In 2009, ONEOK Field opened in the Greenwood District as a new home for the city’s Double-A baseball team, the Tulsa Drillers.

Tulsa’s nightlife is one of the region’s best-kept secrets. Residents and visitors – especially in our thriving young professional community – frequent our downtown clubs and bars, and the Blue Dome District and Brookside are among the trendiest nightlife spots in the region. From pumping dance clubs to relaxed wine bars, Tulsa’s night scene has something for everyone.

Tulsa stories

CAROLINE GUERRA
Occupation: Law Student, The University of Tulsa

“Tulsa has enough going on that if you are bored, it’s your fault.” – CAROLINE

Caroline has lived in Tulsa for two years and still hasn’t quite experienced all the city has to offer. She’s especially proud of its seemingly endless supply of restaurants. From old favorites to trendy new bistrots, Tulsa’s eats can keep you busy for years.
Performing Arts

Before Tulsa had roads, it had an opera house. A flourishing arts community is one of the many treasures Tulsa retained as a result of the oil boom. From performance to visual and classical to modern, Tulsa can be interpreted as an artist’s paradise.

Designed by World Trade Center architect Minoru Yamasaki, the Tulsa Performing Arts Center houses four theaters, 13 resident performing arts organizations, a touring Broadway series, an extensive international collection of art and welcomes headlining talent from around the world. The Tulsa Opera is the 18th-oldest opera company in North America. The company presents three grand opera productions each season and is ranked among the 10 favorite regional opera companies in the United States. LOOK Musical Theatre presents professional performances in repertory fashion at the Tulsa Performing Arts Center to preserve and promote the musical theatre style genre and increase understanding of the role of musical theatre within a variety of cultural contexts. Two symphonies join the opera in filling Tulsa with the sounds of incredible talent. The Tulsa Symphony is a renowned musician-run orchestra and the Signature Symphony is Tulsa’s professional orchestra in residence at Tulsa Community College. The Signature Symphony regularly hosts world-famous guest artists. The Tulsa Ballet is one of the top ballet companies in North America and exposes America’s heartland to the finest works in classical and contemporary dance.

Tulsa Spotlight Theater is home to the longest continually-running play in North America with its presentation of “The Drunkard” for more than 50 years. The theater is one of Tulsa’s art deco treasures, originally known as the Riverside studio, now listed in the National Historic Registry. The theatre is also home to award-winning children’s theatre productions designed to introduce young patrons to live theatre.

Visual Arts

Any artist will tell you art can be found anywhere, but Tulsa seems to have been built on that principle. Along with Tulsa’s extensive collection of art deco architecture, other incredible works of art can be found throughout the city and in perfect preservation at one of Tulsa’s numerous art museums.

Tulsa Spotlight Theater was donated to the city of Tulsa in 1938. The beautiful Renaissance-style villa, with its 72 rooms on 23 acres of elaborate gardens, now exhibits more than 8,500 works of art and is listed as one of America’s Top 65 art museums. The museum collection includes European art as well as Native American artifacts. Philbrook is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and is one of only five facilities in the United States to include a museum, home and gardens.

A new branch of the museum, Philbrook Downtown, specializes in Native American and modern art, and sits at the heart of the Brady Arts District. This area also features several smaller art galleries and an urban park that has been named the world’s best example of urban design. The Sherwin Miller Museum of Jewish Art contains the Southwest’s finest collection of Judaica, including priceless items nearly 4,000 years old. An extraordinary Holocaust collection emphasizes the experiences of survivors who came to live in Oklahoma, as well as Oklahomans who participated in the liberation of the Nazi concentration camps.

A new addition to downtown Tulsa, the Arts & Humanities Council of Tulsa Hardesty Arts Center (AHHA) is a four-floor, 42,000-square-foot building housing gallery space, studios, classrooms and a stage for performances. Artists in residence have studios to work, teach and learn, and hundreds of schoolchildren and adults can visit daily. Admission is free and open to the public.

Art in Tulsa isn’t necessarily reserved for museums or galleries. Impressive displays of nature captured in bronze sculptures adorn Riverside Drive thanks to Tulsa’s NatureWorks, a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting wildlife conservation efforts. Even the trees in Tulsa have been transformed into works of art by chainsaw artist Clayton Coss, who has adorned Tulsa with thousands of tree trunk carvings in school yards, city parks, popular shopping districts and even the yards of residents.

Living Arts of Tulsa offers creative workshops, performances, exhibitions, films/videos, demonstrations... of current art, lectures, related educational activities and research in its mission to present and develop contemporary art forms in Tulsa.

“Of course, we did not have any sewers, street paving, parks or sidewalks and not much of a water system, but these facilities were luxuries and could wait, whereas an opera house loomed as an immediate necessity.”

– 1905, L.J. Martin, president of Tulsa’s Commercial Club

Preserving History
Tulsa’s story, and much of the world’s, can be explored at one of the city’s museums and centers devoted to paying homage to the past.

Referred to as the “The museum of the Americas,” Gilcrease Museum is one of the country’s finest facilities for the preservation, study and appreciation of American art and history. Gilcrease Museum is a national treasure housing more than 10,000 paintings, drawings, prints and sculptures by 400 artists from colonial times to the present. Gilcrease has the world’s largest and most comprehensive collection of art of the American West.

Former home of Sam and Lucy Mackey, the Mabel B. Little Heritage House was built in the 1920s and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Known as the “Black Wall Street,” Tulsa’s Greenwood District once stretched for 20 blocks and was the largest and richest of Oklahoma’s 50 block communities. Today, the Greenwood Cultural Center and the Mabel B. Little Heritage House present a permanent history of the district thanks to the foresight of civic leaders. Nearby a tribute to the devastating 1921 Tulsa Race Riot was erected at the John Hope Franklin Reconciliation Park where the Tower of Reconciliation celebrates the African American story in Oklahoma.

One of the newest additions to Tulsa’s art scene pays homage to one of America’s greatest folksinger/songwriters and Okie, Woody Guthrie. The Woody Guthrie Center features exhibits, an outreach and education program, and a concert series.

The Tulsa Sound
A city that has coined its own sound must not only have a rich live music scene, but also a strong reverence to the sounds of its past. From culturally significant music halls to one of the world’s top-selling arenas, Tulsa’s music and entertainment scene offers a sound, venue and vibe to fit any taste.

Two famous venues, Brady Theater and Cain’s Ballroom, are historic buildings and concert halls that have hosted, and continue to host, some of the world’s greatest musicians and entertainers.

TULSA’S DISTINCT LOOK
One of Tulsa’s, and the nation’s, greatest treasures is found in majestic buildings, homes and manors that reminisce a time when Tulsa was the “Oil Capital of the World.” Tulsa has the third highest concentration of art deco in the United States behind New York and Miami. The awe-inspiring beauty of this architectural style can be seen in one of Tulsa’s most iconic buildings, the Boston Avenue Methodist Church, on the national Register of historic places and a national historic landmark in Tulsa.

“We had no water system, but we had an opera house.”

– 1905, L.J. Martin, president of Tulsa’s Commercial Club
Fondly nicknamed the “Old Lady on Brady,” the 100-year-old Brady Theatre in downtown has played host to countless big-name performers, including Journey, Kansas, B.B. King, Will Rogers, Robin Williams and Randy Travis. Today, it anchors the bustling Brady Arts District and stands as one of the greatest monuments to Tulsa’s rich cultural heritage.

Cain’s Ballroom has been a popular nightspot in Tulsa since the 1920s — especially for country Western aficionados during its early years. Often referred to as the Carnegie Hall of country Western music, this celebrated, world-famous concert venue is an icon of music history, and widely considered the birthplace of the Western swing genre as the home base for Bob Wills and His Texas Playboys in the 1930s. Today, it remains one of the world’s most successful small concert venues, hosting internationally known artists and nurturing local, homegrown talent.

The Oklahoma Jazz Hall of Fame remembers the once-flourishing dance hall located in the Greenwood District that was a hotbed for jazz and blues. It’s where Count Basie first encountered big-band jazz in the early 1900s. The hall recently moved to the historic art deco union depot and now chronicles the history, evolution and influence of jazz in Oklahoma. Through its ongoing concert series, classes and cultural events, the Oklahoma Jazz Hall of Fame is raising a new awareness of and appreciation for the truly American art forms of jazz, blues and gospel music.

When the world’s most renowned performers come to the heartland, they come to the BOK Center. The 18,000-plus-seat arena transformed Tulsa’s downtown landscape, spurring economic growth and development, all by hosting today’s hottest names in music and entertainment, including Lady Gaga, Reba McEntire, Katy Perry, Justin Bieber, Paul McCartney and Miley Cyrus.

These historically significant and world-renowned venues join the tapestry of live music locations across the city that keep the Tulsa sound alive.

The BOK Center was designed by world-renowned architect Cesar Pelli, who also designed what were once the tallest buildings in the world, the Petronas Towers in Malaysia. Lined with 31,600 stainless-steel plates that swirl into a 130-foot glass façade, the arena makes use of a contemporary circular design reminiscent of Tulsa’s Native American heritage and art deco styles.

Find YOURSELF Tulsa’s downtown is the setting for popular arts festivals like the Blue Dome Arts Festival and Tulsa International Mayfest as well as music celebrations including Juneteenth, the Greenwood Jazz Festival, the Oklahoma Blues Festival and the LOOK Festival, presented by light opera Oklahoma as part of Summerstage at the Tulsa Performing Arts Center.

BOK Center by the numbers:
- 565,000: Square feet
- 550,000: Visitors annually
- 19,199: Maximum concert seating
- 134: Feet tall
- 37: Public restrooms
- 14: Concession outlets

TULSA’S SOUND
Tulsa’s downtown is the setting for popular arts festivals like the Blue Dome Arts Festival and Tulsa International Mayfest as well as music celebrations including Juneteenth, the Greenwood Jazz Festival, the Oklahoma Blues Festival and the LOOK Festival, presented by light opera Oklahoma as part of Summerstage at the Tulsa Performing Arts Center.
Downtown
No better blend of the past, present and future can be found in Tulsa than in downtown. Architectural marvels from the 1920s house modern concept bars and restaurants, while the dust of new construction swirls in the air in Tulsa’s busy city center. While the collective theme for downtown is development, each district has a slightly different and distinct personality, giving Tulsans a plethora of options for finding “their spot.”

The burgeoning Brady Arts District is home to art galleries, shops, restaurants and nightclubs, including the famous entertainment venues the Brady Theater and Cain’s Ballroom. In 2012, downtown Tulsa welcomed a new urban garden and performance space in the Brady Arts District. The Guthrie Green is the perfect getaway for families, young professionals and anyone looking for a peaceful escape and the sounds of either a live local band or the garden’s water features.

The Blue Dome District, named for a former gas station sporting an iconic blue dome, is a center of Tulsa nightlife. The district serves a young crowd attracted to pubs, restaurants, clubs and the live music scene. Baseball enthusiasts and visitors alike will share the Tulsa pride and spirit upon visiting downtown Tulsa’s baseball diamond known as ONEOK Field in the historic Greenwood District. Home to the Tulsa Drillers, the $39.2 million stadium provides family fun and entertainment April through August. Once called “Black Wall Street,” the district also houses artifacts from the district’s past at the Greenwood Cultural Center and the Mabel B. Little Heritage Center while paying homage to the devastating 1921 Tulsa Race Riot and celebrating the African American story in Oklahoma at the John Hope Franklin Reconciliation Park.

The Deco District is home to the artifacts left behind by the oil barons who once called Tulsa home. Through art deco walking tours provided by the Tulsa Historical Society and private tour companies, visitors can marvel at the many art deco buildings still standing in downtown Tulsa, providing some of the richest examples of the zigzag and streamline styles that were popular during the 1920s. For a taste of Tulsa head east to East Village, where you’ll find trendy bars and Girouard Vines, an urban winery with a weekly wine-tasting class, art studios and loft apartments, among other retailers and service providers.

Sobo District, or the South Boston (Avenue) District, is a pocket of activity located just south of the heart of downtown and is the perfect destination for a glass of wine with friends or early morning meeting over coffee.

The Pearl District is on the east side of downtown and is one of the city’s oldest neighborhoods. Recent revitalization efforts have made the area an attractive residential space for individuals or families looking for an urban atmosphere with importance placed on walkability. Centered around the BOK Center and the nearby Cox Business Center, facilities in the BOK Center District offer performances by major artists, professional sports teams and numerous conferences every year.

Find YOURSELF
Fairs, festivals
Tulsa fairs and festivals celebrate culture, art, music and more. In Tulsa, there is a chance and reason to celebrate nearly every weekend.

The diverse cultures found across the city provide plenty of opportunity for residents to learn about and celebrate the heritage and customs of their neighbors. A strong and active German population allows Tulsa to host one of the biggest Oktoberfest celebrations in North America. Other culturally-driven festivals include Indian Art Festival, Greek Holiday, Scottish Games, Festival Hispano, Shalomfest, Junefest and Cherokee Art Market.

As with culture, Tulsa respects and pays tribute to music and art from every genre, influence and style. Tulsa’s downtown is the setting for popular arts festivals like the Blue Dome Arts Festival and Tulsa International Mayfest, as well as music celebrations including Juneteenth, the Greenwood Jazz Festival, the Oklahoma Blues Festival and the LOOK festival, presented by Light Opera Oklahoma as part of SummerStage at the Tulsa Performing Arts Center.

Outside of downtown, locals head to Utica Square, an upscale, outdoor shopping center, with lawn chairs, blankets and picnic baskets in tow every Thursday night during the summer months for the Summer's Fifth Night concert series featuring popular local artists.

Summer celebrations also include Freedomfest over the Fourth of July holiday on the west bank of the Arkansas River.

For 10 days every fall, more than 1 million people flock to the Tulsa State Fair featuring food, rides, concerts and the Oklahoma Sugar Art Show, where national bakers and chocolatiers put their confectionary skills to the test. If the sugar art show is too sweet for your taste, Rock ‘N Rib Festival may be more suitable to your palette. The four-day festival features live music, delicious concessions and mechanical bull rides outside of the BOK Center downtown.

Finally, Winterfest transforms downtown Tulsa into a winter wonderland each year after Thanksgiving through New Year’s Day. Home to an outdoor ice skating rink, concerts, food and the largest Christmas tree in Oklahoma, Tulsa’s winter festival has become a Tulsa tradition.

Entertain the Family
A city zoo, air and space museum, planetarium, aquarium and numerous parks are just some of the attractions that make Tulsa a favorite among children and their parents.

Tulsa Zoo
TULSAZOO.COM
The Tulsa Zoo has become a magnet for families and animal lovers alike for good reason. Thanks to substantial renovations and generous bequests, the zoo has emerged as the region’s largest daily attraction, welcoming more than 550,000 guests each year. Located in Mohawk Park, the third-largest municipal park in the United States, the zoo is home to more than 3,500 animals and about 500 species. The zoo will continue to evolve as it brings its 20-year master plan to life. Information about the zoo’s growth plans is available at buildingbeyond.org.

The nearby Oxley Nature Center offers more than 800 pristine acres of walking trails through forests, fields and wetlands.

DID YOU KNOW?
Tulsa’s low cost of living, short commute time and robust economy prompted Parenting Magazine to name it as one of the best cities for families.
For the sports enthusiast, Tulsa has it all. With four minor league teams, premier golf courses, a collegiate sports program and a WNBA team, there is always a game to catch in Tulsa.

Tulsa's Tulsa Shock, which plays in the BOK Center, is Tulsa's major sports franchise, featuring many of the league's rising stars and a fast-paced style of play that keeps fans coming back. Baseball is America's favorite pastime and that holds true in Tulsa. The Double-A minor league Tulsa Drillers have been swinging bats in Tulsa for more than 30 years.

Additionally, Tulsa is home to the Tulsa Oilers, a minor league hockey team, and the 66ers, an NBA D-league team, and the new Tulsa Roughnecks, a new professional soccer team playing in the USL PRO league. Tulsa enjoys an above-par reputation when it comes to sports. For the sports enthusiast, Tulsa has it all. With 125 city parks, 180 miles of area pedestrian and bicycle trails and a region with hiking and lakes activities, the outdoor enthusiast can't get bored in Tulsa.

Tulsa has 40 miles of shoreline along the Arkansas River, and the river's signature feature, River Parks, offers 26 miles of asphalt-surfaced trails that weave past shoreline restaurants, gathering areas, playgrounds and sculptures. River Parks offers dual trails for pedestrians and cyclists, plus seasonal enjoyment of fishing, rowing, kayaking and disc golf.

The Turkey Mountain Urban Wilderness Area is a favorite of hikers, mountain bikers and horse riders. This heavily-wooded knob on the west bank of the Arkansas River offers 45 miles of dirt trails that deliver everything from easy strolls to strenuous hikes. If you find the right spot, the mountain offers stunning views of the Tulsa skyline.

One of Tulsa's favorite gathering places, the 34-acre historic Woodward Park is also one of the city's most charming sites. Specializing in spring flowers, it's a favorite spot for wedding photos. The park also houses the Tulsa Garden Center, which has an elaborate garden and one of the region's finest horticultural libraries, with 5,000 volumes on horticulture-related subjects.

The nation's third-largest municipal park, Mohawk Park, houses the Tulsa Zoo, Osleey Nature Center, golf and Lake Yahola, a popular destination for local runners. Just northwest of downtown is the Oklahoma Centennial Botanical Gardens, with 170 acres of unspoiled land, nature trails and Osage Hills vistas. It is open Saturdays, April through October.

For cyclists, Tulsa certainly doesn't disappoint. In addition to biking trails available year round at River Parks and Turkey Mountain, the city has the nationally-recognized cycling event Tulsa Tough, which offers the chance to put your cycling skills to the test during the three days of riding, racing and recreational biking opportunities.

There's likely to be a 5K race on any given weekend in Tulsa, but two racing events have become tradition. Thousands of runners come from all over the world — and from right here in Tulsa — every year for the Tulsa Run and Route 66 Marathon, both held annually in the fall.

The region has plenty to offer, as well. Buffalo once roamed the vast plains of the American heartland, and you can still see them in their natural environment at the Tallgrass Prairie Preserve, a 35,000-acre park north of Tulsa. The preserve offers a rare glimpse into the West as it once was, restored through careful management including the reintroduction of bison and controlled burns.

With a combination of more than 200 manmade and natural lakes, Oklahoma's Green Country, as the northeastern quadrant of the state is called, offers travelers and natives alike a wide variety of options for all of their fishing, swimming and other aquatic activities. Northeastern Oklahoma has dozens of lakes large enough for boating, but it's also home to the "Big Three" of Oklahoma's lakes. Lake Eufaula, Lake Tenkiller and Grand Lake O' the Cherokees are sure to offer once-in-a-lifetime memories that won't disappoint.

To the east of Tulsa, the Illinois River offers enchanting scenery and superb facilities for canoeing, camping and weekend float trips.
Daytrips
Northeastern Oklahoma is known for its rolling hills, bubbling streams, lush prairie fields and quaint, historic small towns. Favorite activities among locals and visitors alike include historic Route 66, numerous Native American cultural sites and wineries situated on bluffs in the Ozark foothills.

BARTLESVILLE: Rich in black-gold history, one of Bartlesville’s main attractions is Woolaroc, the 3,600-acre ranch retreat of oilman Frank Phillips that today serves as a wildlife preserve and museum. The city also boasts Frank Lloyd Wright’s only skyscraper, Price Tower.

CLAREMORE: Best known as the birthplace of Will Rogers, guests of the free Will Rogers Memorial Museum can browse through the 12 galleries dedicated to Rogers’ life as an actor, aviation fan and roping extraordinaire. Claremore also has the Lynn Riggs Memorial, which honors the playwright who inspired the musical “Oklahoma!”

MUSKOGEE: Hurlied into the spotlight by Merle Haggard’s 1969 hit song “Okie from Muskogee,” Muskogee is a rich source for Native American history with both the Five Civilized Tribes Museum and the Ataloa Lodge and Museum. Other attractions include the 60-acre Castle of Muskogee and a retired naval submarine, the U.S.S. Batfish.

Pawhuska: Home to the Osage Nation, this town is rich in the tribe’s history and culture. It is the home of the oldest tribally-owned and continuously-operated Osage Tribal Museum. Pawhuska is also the gateway to the Tallgrass Prairie Preserve as well as host to Cavalcade, the world’s largest amateur rodeo.

Pawnee: Perched on Blue Hawk Peak sits the dream home of Wild West entertainer, the infamous Pawnee Bill. The beautifully-preserved Pawnee Bill Ranch and Museum houses the 14-room Lillie Mansion, an original ranch blacksmith shop, 1903 log cabin and a barn built in 1926.

Pryor: Host of two popular summer music events, Rocklahoma and Country Fever, Pryor is a popular summer destination. Visitors can also browse through the gallery of internationally known father/daughter painting duo Bill and Traci Rabbit as well as view Cherokee and Osage Indian artifacts at the Coo-Y-Yah Museum.

Sallisaw: Rich in Native American culture, Sallisaw is home to the 14 Flags Museum honoring the 14 separate nations that helped shape Oklahoma’s history. Sallisaw also is place of the historically protected landmark, Sequoyah’s Cabin, home of the creator of the Cherokee alphabet.

Sand Springs: Explore a forest full of trees older than the U.S. itself. The Keystone Ancient Forest is home to 300-year-old cedars and 500-year-old post oak trees. Keystone State Park offers yet another opportunity for visitors to reconnect with nature through its hiking trails, campsite and picnic areas, as well as a children’s fishing pond.

Tahlequah: Home to the Cherokee Nation, this city hosts the Cherokee village of Tsu-La-Gi in the Cherokee Heritage Center. It is also the gateway to both Lake Tenkiller and the Illinois River, a popular river rafting destination.

Entertainment and gaming
There’s plenty of variety with several Native American casinos and resorts offering everything from Las Vegas-style gambling and luxurious accommodations to fine restaurants, big-name live

The River Spirit Casino pays tribute to the heritage of the Muscogee (Creek) nation. This $195 million casino, shimmering with beautiful colors and inviting gaming at every turn, features the latest in high-tech machines, casual and fine dining and free live entertainment. In 2015, a $335 million expansion will transform the casino into a Margaritaville, a Jimmy Buffett-inspired waterfront resort with a luxury 500-room, 22-floor hotel.

The two popular Osage Casinos, in Tulsa and Sand Springs, offer more intimate, themed settings with dining options, fast gaming and plenty of attractive promotions.
From uptown boutiques to downtown five and dimes, Tulsa’s shopping options are as varied and eclectic as the city itself.

Brookside
Brookside is filled with quaint boutiques, art galleries, antique shops and trendy restaurants. Stay for the evening when it turns into a neon avenue, where crowds enjoy the unforgettable nightlife.

Cherry Street
Cherry Street houses the Cherry Street Farmer’s Market during growing season and a collection of shops, bistros and cafes year-round. Known for its architecture, antiques, designer interiors, eclectic shops and fine dining, Cherry Street caters to every taste.

Blue Dome District
Shopping in the Blue Dome District is all about Tulsa pride with one-of-a-kind trinkets from dwelling spaces, a Tulsa icon T-shirt from Boomtown Tees or a true Oklahoma souvenir from one of the area’s oldest stores, Lyon’s Indian store. This hotspot is also home to numerous local restaurants.

Deco District
Thanks to the creativity of some downtown business owners, new stores have made a permanent home in the Deco District, bringing new life to historic buildings and giving downtowners more window shopping opportunities than ever before.

The Farm Shopping Center
A little bit of country in the heart of town, the Farm Shopping Center features a restored rustic barn and boardwalk-style paths between shops. More than 40 national, regional and local retailers, plus an assortment of restaurants create a convenient, pleasurable shopping venture.

Wander the many antique shops in the heart of Jenks’ downtown district, west of the Arkansas River on south 96th Street, or stroll along the nearby Riverwalk Crossing, on the banks of the Arkansas River, for fine dining, shopping venues, a state-of-the-art movie theater and live entertainment.

Jenks, America

Did You Know?
Tulsa’s Woodland Hills Mall is one of the largest malls in Oklahoma.

KingsPointe Village Shopping Center
At the outdoor KingsPointe Village Shopping Center, you’ll find sporting goods, interior designs, clothing and salons. Plus, cap off your day with dinner at an assortment of restaurants.

SouthRoads
Browse to your heart’s content at a major bookstore or catch the latest flick at a recently remodeled luxury movie theater with new reclining seats. Then, shop a variety of other stores – from home to sports to fashion – and finish off with a great meal at a local restaurant.

The Plaza
A modern, outdoor shopping center, The Plaza features upscale shops showcasing clothing, accessories, health and beauty products, jewelry, home furnishings, personal services and several restaurants.

Tulsa Hills
The city’s largest retail development in decades, Tulsa Hills offers 1.5 million square feet of retail space anchored by national chains. From upscale Italian food to buffalo wings and clothing shops to electronics stores, Tulsa Hills has something for everyone.

Promenade Mall
This spacious shopping mall, which includes a variety of specialty shops and a 12-screen movie theater, is family friendly and features carpeted walkways for your shopping comfort.

Utica Square
A Tulsa original, Utica Square offers a variety of upscale local and national retail shops and restaurants. This outdoor shopping center is picturesque with beautiful landscaping, water fountains, English telephone booths, wrought iron benches and old world tower clocks.

Woodland Hills Mall
Day or night, rain or shine, shopping in the largest mall in the region is an amazing experience. Your entire family will enjoy shopping at Woodland Hills, with more than 165 specialty shops and four major department stores.
From refurbished downtown lofts to elegant historic neighborhoods and spacious suburban sprawls, the Tulsa area offers housing to suit the tastes and needs of young professionals to retired seniors.

Choose from single-family neighborhoods and tree-lined suburbs, revitalized urban lofts, townhouses and everything in between. Plus, Tulsans are embracing green buildings with recent developments of LEED-certified homes.

North
Reflecting Tulsa’s colorful heritage, attractive houses of early-day oil barons and their employees sprinkle the hills in the Brady Heights and Reservoir Hill neighborhoods. Meanwhile, new family-oriented developments and infill projects continue to inject new life and vitality into aging neighborhoods. Farther to the north are Tulsa International Airport and the nearby community of Owasso. Once a quiet suburban town, Owasso has become one of the area’s fastest-growing communities and is a beacon for employees of Spirit Aerosystems, SABRE, WorldCom, Vanguard and Whirlpool.

South
For decades, Tulsa has steadily grown south and that pace has quickened in recent times, especially along the Arkansas River. New housing, apartment complexes, businesses and office buildings are constantly springing up. South Tulsa is highlighted by the 71st Street retail corridor that features abundant shopping and the convenience of Woodland Hills Mall.

South Tulsa is a growing community of tremendous size, offering suburban living and outlying areas perfect for country living. Tulsa is only minutes away via Highway 75, and the Creek Turnpike offers convenient access to the interstate highway system.

East
Broken Arrow has become Tulsa’s largest suburban community with a population of 100,000. Construction of new housing, apartments and retail establishments continues to blur the line between the two communities.

Broken Arrow residents have easy access to south Tulsa’s retail corridor and a short commute to downtown Tulsa via the Broken Arrow Expressway. Just east of the city, Coweta, is an attractive community with affordable housing.

West
Communities to the west have seen rapid growth in recent years. New housing developments are appearing in outlying areas of Sand Springs, which straddles the Arkansas River upstream from Tulsa.

The Red Fork area reflects Tulsa’s oil-related and blue collar past. Berryhill and Sapulpa also offer new housing and apartment developments for Tulsa commuters.

Suburban Life
- Catoosa
- Jenks
- Claremore
- Owasso
- Coweta
- Sand Springs
- Bixby
- Sapulpa
- Broken Arrow
- Glenpool

Urban Revival
The population of downtown Tulsa is growing rapidly, with a 20-30 percent increase seen over the last 10 years. Dozens of projects are in varying stages of completion downtown — everything from new businesses to lofts, condos and grocery stores to provide a true urban living experience.

Did You Know?
Tulsa is in a temperate climate zone allowing residents the variety of four different seasons throughout the year. While the city is in Oklahoma, Tulsa has not suffered a major tornado in many years.
Any community’s success is built upon the cornerstone of quality education for its youth. Since Tulsa’s founding, city leaders have always dedicated themselves to providing a comprehensive education from pre-kindergarten through college.

Public Education

Pre-kindergarten and elementary education provides the foundation for a child’s capacity and interest in learning. Oklahoma leads the nation in early childhood education, setting a precedent for achievement and success, and is considered a model in early childhood schooling.

Oklahoma is also one of few states with a high school drop-out rate of less than 3 percent. In Tulsa County alone, more than 100,000 students are instructed by 13 school districts. Tulsa Public Schools, the largest district in the state, educates more than 42,000 students at more than 80 sites. The district is noted for progressive programs, extensive technology, and high levels of community involvement, including Tulsa Regional Chamber’s very successful Partners in Education program, which encourages companies to develop partnerships with schools to foster ongoing linkages between business and public education.

Private Schools

The rich tradition of private schools in Tulsa dates to the 1880s, when small churches and congregations offered educational opportunities. The tradition continues with many outstanding private institutions and religious-based private schools.

Higher Education

There is no shortage of higher education opportunities in the Tulsa region. Both public and private institutions offer a wide range of associate, undergraduate, graduate and vocational programs. The University of Tulsa continues to be one of the nation’s top-rated private universities while Oklahoma State University in Tulsa, The University of Oklahoma-Tulsa and Northeastern State University-Broken Arrow help accommodate nontraditional students with a variety of graduate and undergraduate programs.

All qualifying high school graduates living in Tulsa County have access to Tulsa Achieves, a program that pays up to 100 percent tuition and fees for Tulsa Community College.

DID YOU KNOW?

U.S. News & World Report ranked The University of Tulsa No. 75 and The University of Tulsa College of Law No. 99 in the 2012 and 2013 editions of Best Colleges.

FinishForGreaterTulsa.com

The Tulsa Regional Chamber partners with area higher education institutions and employers to challenge Tulsans to return to school to earn a degree or certification. This online resource provides information on fast-track college completion programs, a list of schools and a variety of resources, including financial aid.

GUIDE TO EDUCATION

The Tulsa Regional Chamber publishes a guide to education annually that includes a listing of schools with pertinent information. Pre-K-12, colleges, universities, tech schools and other educational institutions are included. For a free guide, please call 918.585.1201.

Other public school districts, such as Jenks, Union, Owasso, Broken Arrow and Bixby, offer students outstanding programs that provide a well-rounded educational experience. And, recognized as the 2005 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award recipient, Jenks was awarded the nation’s highest presidential honor for quality and organizational performance excellence. Through a top-rated education, students from Tulsa-area school districts continually garner impressive honors such as National Merit Scholars and All-American Student-Athlete awards.

INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION INCLUDE:

- Langston University
- Northeastern State University-Broken Arrow
- Oklahoma Wesleyan University
- Oklahoma State University - Tulsa
- Oral Roberts University
- Rogers State University
- Southern Nazarene University
- Spartan College of Aeronautics and Technology
- Tulsa Community College
- Tulsa Technology Center
- University of Oklahoma-Tulsa
- University of Phoenix
- The University of Tulsa

GUIDE TO EDUCATION

The Tulsa Regional Chamber publishes a guide to education annually that includes a listing of schools with pertinent information. Pre-K-12, colleges, universities, tech schools and other educational institutions are included. For a free guide, please call 918.585.1201.

Other public school districts, such as Jenks, Union, Owasso, Broken Arrow and Bixby, offer students outstanding programs that provide a well-rounded educational experience. And, recognized as the 2005 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award recipient, Jenks was awarded the nation’s highest presidential honor for quality and organizational performance excellence. Through a top-rated education, students from Tulsa-area school districts continually garner impressive honors such as National Merit Scholars and All-American Student-Athlete awards.

Private Schools

The rich tradition of private schools in Tulsa dates to the 1880s, when small churches and congregations offered educational opportunities. The tradition continues with many outstanding private institutions and religious-based private schools.

Higher Education

There is no shortage of higher education opportunities in the Tulsa region. Both public and private institutions offer a wide range of associate, undergraduate, graduate and vocational programs. The University of Tulsa continues to be one of the nation’s top-rated private universities while Oklahoma State University in Tulsa, The University of Oklahoma-Tulsa and Northeastern State University-Broken Arrow help accommodate nontraditional students with a variety of graduate and undergraduate programs.

All qualifying high school graduates living in Tulsa County have access to Tulsa Achieves, a program that pays up to 100 percent tuition and fees for Tulsa Community College.

DID YOU KNOW?

U.S. News & World Report ranked The University of Tulsa No. 75 and The University of Tulsa College of Law No. 99 in the 2012 and 2013 editions of Best Colleges.

FinishForGreaterTulsa.com

The Tulsa Regional Chamber partners with area higher education institutions and employers to challenge Tulsans to return to school to earn a degree or certification. This online resource provides information on fast-track college completion programs, a list of schools and a variety of resources, including financial aid.

GUIDE TO EDUCATION

The Tulsa Regional Chamber publishes a guide to education annually that includes a listing of schools with pertinent information. Pre-K-12, colleges, universities, tech schools and other educational institutions are included. For a free guide, please call 918.585.1201.

Other public school districts, such as Jenks, Union, Owasso, Broken Arrow and Bixby, offer students outstanding programs that provide a well-rounded educational experience. And, recognized as the 2005 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award recipient, Jenks was awarded the nation’s highest presidential honor for quality and organizational performance excellence. Through a top-rated education, students from Tulsa-area school districts continually garner impressive honors such as National Merit Scholars and All-American Student-Athlete awards.

Private Schools

The rich tradition of private schools in Tulsa dates to the 1880s, when small churches and congregations offered educational opportunities. The tradition continues with many outstanding private institutions and religious-based private schools.

Higher Education

There is no shortage of higher education opportunities in the Tulsa region. Both public and private institutions offer a wide range of associate, undergraduate, graduate and vocational programs. The University of Tulsa continues to be one of the nation’s top-rated private universities while Oklahoma State University in Tulsa, The University of Oklahoma-Tulsa and Northeastern State University-Broken Arrow help accommodate nontraditional students with a variety of graduate and undergraduate programs.

All qualifying high school graduates living in Tulsa County have access to Tulsa Achieves, a program that pays up to 100 percent tuition and fees for Tulsa Community College.

DID YOU KNOW?

U.S. News & World Report ranked The University of Tulsa No. 75 and The University of Tulsa College of Law No. 99 in the 2012 and 2013 editions of Best Colleges.

FinishForGreaterTulsa.com

The Tulsa Regional Chamber partners with area higher education institutions and employers to challenge Tulsans to return to school to earn a degree or certification. This online resource provides information on fast-track college completion programs, a list of schools and a variety of resources, including financial aid.

GUIDE TO EDUCATION

The Tulsa Regional Chamber publishes a guide to education annually that includes a listing of schools with pertinent information. Pre-K-12, colleges, universities, tech schools and other educational institutions are included. For a free guide, please call 918.585.1201.

Other public school districts, such as Jenks, Union, Owasso, Broken Arrow and Bixby, offer students outstanding programs that provide a well-rounded educational experience. And, recognized as the 2005 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award recipient, Jenks was awarded the nation’s highest presidential honor for quality and organizational performance excellence. Through a top-rated education, students from Tulsa-area school districts continually garner impressive honors such as National Merit Scholars and All-American Student-Athlete awards.

Private Schools

The rich tradition of private schools in Tulsa dates to the 1880s, when small churches and congregations offered educational opportunities. The tradition continues with many outstanding private institutions and religious-based private schools.

Higher Education

There is no shortage of higher education opportunities in the Tulsa region. Both public and private institutions offer a wide range of associate, undergraduate, graduate and vocational programs. The University of Tulsa continues to be one of the nation’s top-rated private universities while Oklahoma State University in Tulsa, The University of Oklahoma-Tulsa and Northeastern State University-Broken Arrow help accommodate nontraditional students with a variety of graduate and undergraduate programs.

All qualifying high school graduates living in Tulsa County have access to Tulsa Achieves, a program that pays up to 100 percent tuition and fees for Tulsa Community College.

DID YOU KNOW?

U.S. News & World Report ranked The University of Tulsa No. 75 and The University of Tulsa College of Law No. 99 in the 2012 and 2013 editions of Best Colleges.

FinishForGreaterTulsa.com

The Tulsa Regional Chamber partners with area higher education institutions and employers to challenge Tulsans to return to school to earn a degree or certification. This online resource provides information on fast-track college completion programs, a list of schools and a variety of resources, including financial aid.
As the nation’s largest and fastest growing industry, health care flourishes in the Tulsa region. Tulsans benefit from access to some of the nation’s leading health care facilities and major medical centers. A strong network of more than 1,800 physicians, 400 dentists, comprehensive health maintenance organizations, 24-hour ground and air emergency medical transportation and enhanced 911 services serve the region.

Saint Francis Health System, St. John Health System, and Hillcrest Healthcare System meet a majority of the health care needs for the Tulsa area and northeastern Oklahoma. Branch campuses and specialty treatment centers within the three core networks continue the stellar care for the entire region and serve as specialists for much of the nation, including Tulsa Spine & Specialty Hospital, Saint Francis Heart Hospital, Oklahoma Surgical Hospital, Oklahoma Heart Institute and the Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

A premier health care education also begins in Tulsa, where the state’s leading universities instruct future medical professionals. The University of Oklahoma’s College of Medicine in Tulsa, now called the OU School of Community Medicine, has been a mainstay of Tulsa’s medical community for more than 30 years and now occupies an expanded campus at the OU-Tulsa Schusterman center in midtown Tulsa.

Additionally, the Oklahoma State University Medical Center, established in 1972 and located in downtown Tulsa, has consistently been named one of the best medical schools in the nation for primary care by U.S. News & World Report. In May 2010, Tulsa became one of 15 communities to be awarded a $12 million beacon community grant from the Office of the National Coordinator for Health IT. The grant established a community-wide health information exchange among more than 1,600 providers in the region to help better monitor and improve care.

From prenatal care to advanced research, Tulsa’s health care community ensures present and future generations will have access to first-rate treatment.
Tulsa's top INDUSTRIES

Tulsa is home to some of the nation's largest companies, with key industry sectors that include aerospace, energy, health care, technology, manufacturing, transportation, and a growth domestic product of $44.8 billion, putting it at No. 9 in the nation.

With the cost of doing business at 8 percent below the U.S. average due to low rent, energy costs and taxes, Tulsa is a prime location for industry prospects looking to expand or relocate. With one of the lowest unemployment rates in the nation, Tulsa is also a prime place for job seekers especially those belonging to the city's top industries.

Aerospace and Aviation
Home to more than 70 aerospace companies and 14,000-plus aerospace jobs, Tulsa is considered a leader in the aerospace industry with opportunities available for all levels of workers. American Airlines Maintenance Repair and Overhaul Division is one of Tulsa’s largest aerospace employers, and other aerospace companies calling Tulsa home include NORDAM, Spirit AeroSystems and Flight Safety International.

Energy
Energy is big business in Tulsa. Whether it’s oil, gas or alternative energy, Tulsa remains a significant player in the energy industry. Efforts by leading employers such as Williams, ONEOK, Holly Corporation, and others, and the wide array of supporting manufacturers and service providers, create continued growth and employment opportunities.

Health Care
Quality health care is the leading industry nationwide and it continues to flourish in Tulsa thanks to the many medical schools, hospitals, nursing homes, hospice programs, clinics and emergency rooms. With five major tertiary care hospitals and several widely recognized specialty and teaching centers, Tulsa’s medical community is committed to outstanding health care and continues to provide highly desired employment opportunities.

Technology
High-tech companies are a key component of the Tulsa market. Fostering innovation and entrepreneurship, Tulsa’s technology industry includes diverse areas such as nanotechnology, aviation and aerospace, telecommunications, information security, advance sensors, biotechnology, knowledge management and three-dimensional display technology. Continued economic efforts and initiatives started through environments, such as the Institute for Information Security, have secured Tulsa a top place in technological advancement.

Advanced Manufacturing
Benefiting from Tulsa’s central location, many of the nation’s largest manufacturers call Tulsa home. Tulsa’s diverse manufacturing economy continues its steady expansion and is buoyed by petroleum activity and strong aviation-related production. Confidence is strong as Tulsa’s innovative manufacturers, including KWAC Defense, Navico, Labaro Electronics and McElroy Manufacturing, adapt to worldwide challenges and compete on a global scale.

Transportation, Distribution and Logistics
Transportation is a key industry for Tulsa. The city is centrally located in the United States along a major east-west corridor with rail and air access, as well as waterway access to national and international ports. Major companies include Macy’s, which has announced plans to open a major fulfillment center, BNSF and Melton Truck Lines. In fact, Tulsa is home to the nation’s most inland water port, the Tulsa Port of Catoosa, which includes a 2,000-acre industrial park housing more than 60 companies, employing 4,000 people.

Entrepreneurism and Small Business
For those looking to pioneer their own opportunities in business, Tulsa is a beacon. A highly-educated workforce, low cost of living and progressive state of mind makes Tulsa an attractive location for entrepreneurs and small business owners. In fact, small businesses provide more than 155,000 primary jobs and an estimated payroll of $1.4 billion annually in the Tulsa metropolitan area.

A small business incubator in downtown Tulsa called The Forge has nurtured startup companies since 2010, and in 2013 its tenants and graduates contributed more than $1.5 million to the regional economy. 36°N, a new Chamber-sponsored entrepreneurial basecamp and co-working space, will open in early 2016.

PUBLIC COMPANIES HEADQUARTERED IN TULSA

ONIK, Inc.
Williams Cos., Inc.
Helmerich & Payne, Inc.
BOK Financial Corp.
Public Service Company of Oklahoma
Magellan Midstream Partners, LP
Unit Corp.
Alliance Resource Partners, LP
Marina Service Co.
Williams
AAGN, Inc.
Area Resources, Inc.
North American Galvanizing & Coatings, Inc.
Orchids Paper Products Co.
Zeta Technologies, Inc.
Limco-Piedmont, Inc.
RM Energy Resources, Inc.
Advantage Technologies Group, Inc.
Educational Development Corp.
Systoreum Corp.
Amexar Group
Osage Bancshares, Inc.
MacroSolve, Inc.
WFX Energy

PRIVATE COMPANIES HEADQUARTERED IN TULSA

QuikTrip Corp.
Seminole Energy Services, LLC
Manhattan Construction Co.
McGraw Davison Stewart, Inc.
NGL Supply, Inc.
GRB Corp. (Kaiser-Francis Oil Co.)
Cedar Creek Wholesale, Inc.
Sheehan Pipeline Construction
Samson Investment Co.
T.D. Williamson, Inc.
Frontier Field services, LLC
National Truck Parts, Inc. (CCI Corporation)
Explorer Pipeline Co.
GHS Holding Co., Inc. (Blue Cross Blue Shield)
Alliance Coal, LLC
United States Beef Corp. (Arby’s)
Bama Companies, Inc.
Mazzio’s Corporation
The art and culture found in Tulsa tell the story of the city’s diverse past. Artifacts, treasures and influences from Native American tribes, African American civic leaders, European immigrants and wealthy oil barons blend beautifully to create a mosaic of diversity and inclusion.

Today, Tulsa is strengthened by the range of opinions, beliefs and influences of its citizens. Recognizing the benefit of those differences, an initiative known as Mosaic has been enacted by the Tulsa Regional Chamber and community leaders to ensure the region continues to leverage its diversity to create an inclusive community and improve the economic and social climate in the Tulsa region.

Tulsa has one of the largest LGBT centers in the U.S., and a large network of progressive, affirming and welcoming congregations.

The city hosts a number of cultural festivals each year, including the Indian Art Festival, Greek Holiday, the Scottish Games, the Festival Hispano, ShalomFest and what has been recognized as one of America’s largest Oktoberfests.

As is characteristic for most cities in the heartland, Tulsa enjoys a spiritual presence found throughout the city and benefits from a myriad of many and varied religions, denominations and cultures.

Tulsa enjoys more than 200 places to worship, including churches, synagogues, temples and centers for Protestants, Jews, Muslims, Buddhists, Catholics and other denomination and non-denominational organizations. No matter your beliefs, spirituality or style of worship, Tulsa has a like-minded group and tolerant population to support your freedom of religion.

DIVERSE WORSHIP

The Tulsa Regional Chamber’s diversity business council, Mosaic, seeks to leverage the Tulsa area’s diversity and promote the tangible financial benefits of an inclusive workplace culture. Through talent recruitment initiatives and business retention and expansion efforts, Mosaic seeks to catapult the Tulsa region into the forefront of diversity and inclusion. More information can be found at MosaicTulsa.com.

YOUTH-MINDED

No. 8 U.S. city for young adults

Tulsa’s active, concerned and involved young adult population has joined to create one of the nation’s largest young professionals organizations. Tulsa’s Young Professionals (TYPros) was formed in 2005 to help retain and attract young professionals to the region.

Now boasting more than 7,000 members, TYPros hosts numerous events, activities and programs to promote the city and various initiatives including sustainability, diversity, arts, education, business development and urban development, among others.

TULSANS CARE

Tulans are altruistic by nature and the city is known as “America’s Most Generous City”. With great foresight and consideration for the community, Tulsa is home to America’s largest community foundation. Established in 1998, the Tulsa Community Foundation exists to ensure the philanthropic needs of Oklahomans can be met for all generations.

The giving spirit resonates throughout the community, making it one of the most philanthropic cities in the United States, both in time and money. Nearly 32 percent of Tulsa residents volunteer their time to an area nonprofit. The spirit of giving continues with the next generation as well. Tulsa’s Young Professionals volunteers thousands of hours each year in community projects like Street CReD, where they transform an abandoned block into an urban hotspot for a weekend to show the community what could exist with time, attention and development.

Whatever the cause, Tulsa offers an organization to serve it, providing hundreds of opportunities for volunteering, community service and civic engagement. In addition to the community foundation and the Tulsa Area United Way, some of the largest nonprofits in Tulsa include Family & Children’s Services, Tulsa Day Center for the Homeless, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Special Olympics and Oklahomans for Equality.

TULSANS CARE

Tulans are altruistic by nature and the city is known as “America’s Most Generous City”. With great foresight and consideration for the community, Tulsa is home to America’s largest community foundation. Established in 1998, the Tulsa Community Foundation exists to ensure the philanthropic needs of Oklahomans can be met for all generations.

The giving spirit resonates throughout the community, making it one of the most philanthropic cities in the United States, both in time and money. Nearly 32 percent of Tulsa residents volunteer their time to an area nonprofit. The spirit of giving continues with the next generation as well. Tulsa’s Young Professionals volunteers thousands of hours each year in community projects like Street CReD, where they transform an abandoned block into an urban hotspot for a weekend to show the community what could exist with time, attention and development.

Whatever the cause, Tulsa offers an organization to serve it, providing hundreds of opportunities for volunteering, community service and civic engagement. In addition to the community foundation and the Tulsa Area United Way, some of the largest nonprofits in Tulsa include Family & Children’s Services, Tulsa Day Center for the Homeless, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Special Olympics and Oklahomans for Equality.

DIVERSE WORSHIP

As is characteristic for most cities in the heartland, Tulsa enjoys a spiritual presence found throughout the city and benefits from a myriad of many and varied religions, denominations and cultures.

Tulsa enjoys more than 200 places to worship, including churches, synagogues, temples and centers for Protestants, Jews, Muslims, Buddhists, Catholics and other denomination and non-denominational organizations. No matter your beliefs, spirituality or style of worship, Tulsa has a like-minded group and tolerant population to support your freedom of religion.

AREA ORGANIZATIONS

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice
German-American Society of Tulsa
Oklahomans for Equality
Jewish Federation of Tulsa
Gay and Lesbian Fund for Tulsa
Greenwood Chamber of Commerce
Greater Tulsa Hispanic Chamber of Commerce
Hispanic American Foundation
Tulsa Global Alliance
Italian American Society of Tulsa
Islamic Society of Tulsa
Oklahoma Black Chamber of Commerce
Native American Chamber of Commerce
Indo-American Chamber of Commerce
Grow Jewish Tulsa
John Hope Franklin Center for Reconciliation

YOUTH-MINDED

No. 8 U.S. city for young adults

Tulsa’s active, concerned and involved young adult population has joined to create one of the nation’s largest young professionals organizations. Tulsa’s Young Professionals (TYPros) was formed in 2005 to help retain and attract young professionals to the region.

Now boasting more than 7,000 members, TYPros hosts numerous events, activities and programs to promote the city and various initiatives including sustainability, diversity, arts, education, business development and urban development, among others.

TULSANS CARE

Tulans are altruistic by nature and the city is known as “America’s Most Generous City”. With great foresight and consideration for the community, Tulsa is home to America’s largest community foundation. Established in 1998, the Tulsa Community Foundation exists to ensure the philanthropic needs of Oklahomans can be met for all generations.

The giving spirit resonates throughout the community, making it one of the most philanthropic cities in the United States, both in time and money. Nearly 32 percent of Tulsa residents volunteer their time to an area nonprofit. The spirit of giving continues with the next generation as well. Tulsa’s Young Professionals volunteers thousands of hours each year in community projects like Street CReD, where they transform an abandoned block into an urban hotspot for a weekend to show the community what could exist with time, attention and development.

Whatever the cause, Tulsa offers an organization to serve it, providing hundreds of opportunities for volunteering, community service and civic engagement. In addition to the community foundation and the Tulsa Area United Way, some of the largest nonprofits in Tulsa include Family & Children’s Services, Tulsa Day Center for the Homeless, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Special Olympics and Oklahomans for Equality.
The No. 2 mid-sized city in the nation for jobs needs a powerful resource to help employers and job seekers navigate the many opportunities the Tulsa region offers current and future residents.

To connect companies with quality talent, ChooseTulsa.com was created. The site provides tools and resources for recruiters and potential employees to make the employment process seamless.

Resources provided by ChooseTulsa.com include:
- Stories from residents on why they choose Tulsa
- Regional job listings
- Cost of living calculator
- Housing, health care and education information
- Relocation contact information
- Community and culture profiles

For individuals
- To find a home: TulsaHousingSearch.org, TulsaRealtors.com
- To find public services: CityofTulsa.org
- To find things to do: VisitTulsa.com, DoWhatThisLandPress.com, TulsaPeople.com, TulsaDowntown.org, TulsaKids.com
- To find a job: TulsaWorld.com, ChooseTulsa.com
- To get connected: TulsaChamber.com
- To find child care: CCRTulsa.org
- To find special needs resources: Ability-Resources.org, Gatesway.org

For local news:
- TulsaWorld.com

For veterans:
- CityofTulsa.org (Veteran’s Resource Center)

For Entrepreneurs
- TheForge-Tulsa.com

For relocation assistance:
- ChooseTulsa.com

For young professionals:
- TYPros.org

For businesses
- To get connected: TulsaChamber.com
- To get economic data: GrowMetroTulsa.com
- To post jobs: TulsaWorld.com (Jobs section)
- To find downtown commercial properties: TulsaDowntown.org
- For fostering an inclusive workplace: MosaicTulsa.com
- Find exclusive offers: LetsDoBusinessTulsa.com

For local news
- TulsaWorld.com

For veterans
- CityofTulsa.org (Veteran’s Resource Center)

For Entrepreneurs
- TheForge-Tulsa.com

For relocation assistance
- ChooseTulsa.com

For young professionals
- TYPros.org

CHOOSETULSA.COM
A POWERFUL SITE FOR A POWERFUL CITY
The No. 2 mid-sized city in the nation for jobs needs a powerful resource to help employers and job seekers navigate the many opportunities the Tulsa region offers current and future residents.

To connect companies with quality talent, ChooseTulsa.com was created. The site provides tools and resources for recruiters and potential employees to make the employment process seamless.

Resources provided by ChooseTulsa.com include:
- Stories from residents on why they choose Tulsa
- Regional job listings
- Cost of living calculator
- Housing, health care and education information
- Relocation contact information
- Community and culture profiles
Stay with us as you settle in your new home town! Our brand new hotel is located in the heart of the city and it provides all the comforts of home for the entire family, even for your pets! Call us today at 918-947-8200 to reserve your aloft room or suite and receive an extended stay/relocation rate discount, free secure parking, free Wi-Fi and much more.

Aloft Tulsa Downtown
200 Civic Center Tulsa, Oklahoma 74103

W XYZSM bar
• Fast & free WiFi
• Splash pool
• Re:chargeSM gym & more

© 2014 Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide, Inc. All Rights Reserved. Aloft and its logos are the trademarks of Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide, Inc., or its affiliates.
Get to know Tulsa.

tulsaworld.com